Organized Fight in Senate to Prevent Confirmation May Furnish Another Dramatic Oil Chapter

CLOSE DENBY CASE

Senators Expect Nothing Further in This Matter—Will Seek to Probe Attorney Gen- eral Daugherty

Washington, Feb. 12.—An organized fight in the Senate against the confirmation of Silas H. Strawn and Allen Pomeroy as special government counsel in the oil cases promises to furnish another dramatic chapter in the rapidly unfolding story of the naval oil lease.

Definite indications that Senator Welsh, Democrat, Montana, dominant figure in passing the inquiry is opposed to the lawyers selected by President Coolidge provided the chief development of the day in the oil investigation.

The oil committee considered the nominations at two executive sessions but without reaching a decision. Between times it heard six witnesses at public sessions in efforts to obtain more light on the circumstances surrounding the leasing of the Teapot Dome reserve to Harry F. Sinclair and the California Elk Hills reserve to E. L. Debeny.

Members of all senatorial groups showed a disposition to treat an closed incident the refusal of President Coolidge to entertain the senate's request that he demand "immediately" the resignation of Secretary Denby for his part in the leases.

he would introduce a resolution proposing a full investigation of all the official acts of Attorney General Daugherty and of all branches of the department of justice under the stewardship of Mr. Daugherty.

J. Lee Black, Denver oil man with whom Croat was associated, and who had contractual rights in claim in Teapot Dome, testified that he has become convinced soon after Black obtained the lands that there have been "bad faith, fraud and more."

The committee sought, but with little success, to establish definite figures for the amount of money who supplied the $200,000 for the purchase of the Albuquerque (N. M.) Journal by Sidney M. Weill from C. Magee in May, 1932, but it was in evidence that Joshua Reynolds was chairman of the board of the First National bank of Albuquerque, he

After the session, Senator Dwyer, Democrat, Washington, who led off the fight against Mr. Strawn and Mr. Pomeroe, declared that he did not think Mr. Strawn would ever be confirmed.

Senator Dill said, "but I think corporate connections are such that the public would not have full confidence in him as a prosecutor."

Senator Dill said he would make a fight to have the nomination of Clegg considered by the senate in open executive session "so that people can know all of the facts that we have just what is said for and against them as counsel in these cases."

AS THE PRESS SEES THINGS

The Madison Standard.

Ex-Secretary McAdoo's letter to Senator Lammie in pathetic plea for relief of fundamental inability to secure political success. Mr. McAdoo's explanation that so many people are disappointed in him as a presidential candidate simply because he tried to earn money rapidly in his profession. He says he was justified in accepting legal business of any kind, before the departments in Washington as well as in the courts, and that he took pay only for services which were strictly professional.

What Mr. McAdoo fails entirely to see is that the standards he thus sets up for himself can never be set up for a lawyer who is also a candidate for the presidency. A great deal of money may be earned legitimately by an attorney in activities which automatically bar him from the White House.—[New York Tribune.]

An Annual Amusement.

Arrangements for the annual amusement for displaying 1923 Pennsylvania license tags, and the summoning of 2,000 drivers before one magistrate in this city for the same reason, only serves to emphasize a situation which is taking on somewhat of the aspect of an annual nuisance. It will not do for motorists to try to shift the blame entirely upon the shoulders of the state automobile authorities. The chronic procrastinator is undoubtedly largely represented among the complaining motorists. The state licensing agency is not at fault in the case of a man who does not put in his application for his license within a reasonable period before the new tax is required.—[Philadelphia Bulletin.]

British Middle Class.

It is often forgotten how extremely recent is the accession of even the middle and professional classes to political power. The late Lord Wolverhampton—better known as Sir Henry Fowler—was the first solicitor who ever held cabinet rank and that was not until 1922. Before then, and indeed before this century, barristers were practically the only professional men who found a place in government.—[London Chronicle.]

The Auxiliary Language.

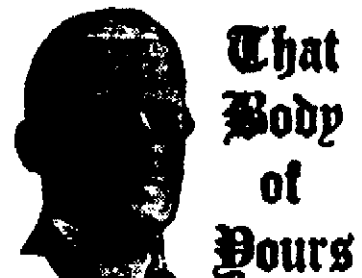

We hear much about the desirability of selecting an auxiliary or synthetic language for international use in science, technology, commerce, radio communication, etc. Such a language will never be selected or determined, even by authority, if we use those words in an arbitrary sense. It will rather, be discovered, that is, it will be the result of the linguistic needs of the occidental world.—[Scientific American.]

The Gasoline Problem.

President Coolidge is to be commended for his prompt decision to order an investigation of the gasoline market. It was Governor McAdoo who took the first step last summer in the war upon extortionate rates which he generally believed to have been about reduction not only in Governor McAdoo's own state, but in nearly every other section of the country.—[Philadelphia Record.]

A Hint of the Success.

Attention to the Mellon tax plan is due to a fear that it would achieve all that its advocates claim for it.—[Pittsburgh Gazette Times.]

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barber, M.D.

WHY WORKING INDOORS TIRES YOU.

In a former article it was shown that when a muscle was exercised, that products were formed—fatigue products—and that they gradually paralyzed the muscle so that it could not work any more. Experiments on animals showed that when a muscle was exercised, a fresh, unworked muscle when injected into it.

If the blood going to the muscle is rich in oxygen these fatigue products are taken up by the blood and are thrown out of the body as carbon dioxide in the breath.

So just as long as the lungs can supply a sufficient amount of oxygen, then the fatigue products are practically carried away as soon as they are manufactured, because the oxygen of the blood immediately takes them up.

But if the blood has not sufficient oxygen in it, and the fatigue products are taken up by the blood and are thrown out of the body as carbon dioxide in the breath.

Part of the trouble in severe cases of pneumonia, where the patient is suffering from air hunger, and the body is actually turning blue, is an accumulation of fatigue products in the blood.

The fatigue products are a great amount of the waste products of the body, because after all, it is nothing more than the waste products of the body.

The physician treating tuberculosis will tell you that it is expiration, breathing out the bad air, that is the hard thing for the patient to do.

What is the point? That in the home where the necessary household duties must be performed, that work would not come on to have more work than allowed to come on. In fact, the same point.

I've often thought that some of our domestic duties might be a little more like a game, and that they might be made more interesting.

Why, then, the trouble with you, sleeping in the chamber of the air. They live from west of air.

TWENTY AND THIRTY YEARS AGO

Days of Old: called by Henry Clapp from the Star File.

February 12, 1894.
George W. Fairchild has been re-elected first vice president of the International Time Recording company of Birmingham.

The following delegates were present at the annual caucus of the Oneonta Fire department held last evening: G. J. Wilber, hose company; William Leventhal, Louis Yager, F. J. Wainwright, Lewis Chemical company; Barton Evans, E. J. Harrington, Edward Berger, Mechanic Hose company; Percy McManus, Howard DeLong, Robert A. Slavin; Oneonta Steamers company; Fred Howard, John Lane, Ernest Austin; D. F. Wilber, Hook and Ladder company; Russell Campbell, E. D. Townsend, Arthur Goldsmith.

The initial steps in the organization of a Business Men's League in Oneonta were taken at a meeting held last evening in the fire department building. F. J. Campbell, of the firm of Turrell & Campbell, who has been active in initiating the matter, called on the meeting to order. Henry Bull was made chairman and R. C. Briggs secretary. Talks were given by Mr. Campbell, Mr. Briggs, E. J. Gurney and Edward M. Ronan. Upon motion of A. J. Reiley the following committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws: A. J. Reiley, Edward M. Ronan, F. H. Brees, A. D. Howe, L. E. Wilder and Orlo Egan.

February 12, 1894.
It is stated that Lee H. Crutten, who has been county clerk of Otsego county for many years and who retired at the last election in favor of the successful candidate, John H. Crutten, is about to accept a position in one of the banks of Cooperstown.

Despite the threatening weather, nearly 100 ladies were in attendance at the meeting yesterday afternoon in Exchange hall, the object in view being the formation of a Woman's Club. The enthusiasm on the subject is so great that a much larger attendance is looked for at the meeting called for this afternoon in the Republican club rooms, over E. E. Ford's drug store.

Yesterday afternoon a sad accident occurred at Sidney in which the left arm of Conductor W. P. Abbott was seriously crushed and which may result in the hand being amputated. Mr. Abbott is the well-known ball player who has guarded third base for the Normals for two years and who has always been a great favorite with local cranks. His unfortunate hitting has always been a feature of his playing.

NATURALIZATION OF VETERANS

Application Should Be Made Prior to March 2, Next.

The latest copy of the U. S. Army Recruiting News received yesterday at the local recruiting station at the following that may be of interest to World War veterans who have not yet been naturalized.

World War veterans, discharged from the service through honorable discharges who desire to be naturalized under the act of congress authorizing their naturalization without complying with many of the usual requirements, such as a declaration of intention, proof of five years residence in the United States, payment of the customary $5 filing fee, and the usual 90 day wait from the date of filing petition to the date of final hearing, must apply to the nearest United States naturalization examiner before March 2, 1924.

After this date honorably discharged World War veterans will have to comply with the usual requirements for naturalization in the same manner as others in ordinary cases.

As a consideration to naturalization under the special statute, the applicant must appear before a naturalization examiner and two identification witnesses for preliminary examination. No fee will be charged.

PEOPLE'S PARLIAMENT

The War dictating all responsibility in regard to the thing of correspondence is placed in the hands of the people.

Glad He Is a Pooler.
To My Fellow Poolers:
I wish to give you a word of caution, for I have found that there is a great deal of confusion on the milk question who comes forth about this time each year with a great bunch of figures to prove that there are about fifty thousand weak-minded degenerates that belong to a certain organization called the Dairymen's League Cooperative association, and if any one dares to speak a word above a whisper in defense of that organization, they are immediately taken to task about it, through the public press, and also by personal communication.

I am one of the victims, having been a member of the pooling association ever since it started—nearly years ago. I have had direct dealing with the dealers, four years a member of the Dairymen's League, Inc.—and when this estimable gentleman came forward with his call for a "discussion on the milk question, I thought with my experience that I was qualified to speak a few words on the milk question.

But, lo and behold! I was soon informed by a personal communication to the grave error that I had made, in saying a word about the milk business whatever. He went so far as to state that I must be a great joker to write such an article, and then claim to be a pooler. I never knew just what the meaning of that word was, for I sent him a communication asking him to explain to me the meaning of the word, and the way he came back at me in answer to my communication, I reckoned that he was mad about something.

And, after working diligently for forty-eight hours and eleven minutes to get the full run of the story of that valued communication, I left it to the Gods.

Of course the little insignificant things that the Dairymen's League Cooperative association has accomplished in its two years and nine months of existence, is not worthy of mention any way. The very fact that our milk is taken care of three hundred and sixty-five days in the year without strike or rumor of strike, and also that the organization gets a better price for those who do not belong to the pool and who know that they are getting a better price than they could ever expect to get if it wasn't for the organization. This coupled with the fact that the Empire State Dairy company, one of the big three milk distributors of New York, who declared their independence of the league, after one year and nine months of independence have bowed to the Goddess of Liberty. All these things are very small things, but they make me glad that I am a pooler.

THE GUIDE POST—

BY HENRY VANDYKE

LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY
And the work of righteousness shall be peace.—Is. 32:17.

The day has passed. Shall not its influence and its lesson stay with us?
Lincoln was a very plain man. He never studied the "Book of Etiquette," nor cared at all about those silly little things which are called "social blunders."

Yet he had the supreme good manners which come from a kind heart. He made everybody, except the pretentious and arrogant, feel at home with him.
Read his letter to Mrs. Dix, five of whose sons had died on the field of battle in defense of the union. It is a fine example of sympathy and courtesy.

Lincoln was an earnest reformer. Yet he was no fanatic or puritanic censor.
Remember his humorous remark about the brand of drink that General Grant used.

Remember that he never called slavery a sin, but only an evil and a danger.
He proposed to remove it by the free action of the states and compensation to the slave owners.

This would have cost far less than the war.
But extremists of both sides rejected his proposal.

Then Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation.
Lincoln says to us:

Manners come from the heart. Progress demands patience. God's will is peace on earth.

Hartwick Seminary Students Remain Firm in Stand Taken

Donald H. Karg of Oneonta and Elks' Dog "Zim" Seem to Have Been Cause of Student Strike—Board of Trustees to Act Today—President Riets Called Sheriff to Building After Declining to Escort All Students from the Building—Event Unfortunate for Historic Institution.

Donald H. Karg, son of the pastor of the Lutheran church at Danville, and his dog "Zim" seem to have been the cause of all the trouble at Hartwick Seminary, the student body of which went out on a strike following the refusal of President Riets to ask for the withdrawal from the school of Karg, as requested by Principal Dudge and approved by the faculty. The dormitories are vacant and the class rooms are still and will remain so until after the board of trustees has taken action in the matter, which is expected at a meeting called for today at the home of the president of the board, Rev. Dr. C. W. Leitch of Albany.

Student Treated and Fettered.

Karg has been unpopular with his fellow students and his conduct objectionable to certain members of the faculty, at least, all the year and a climax was reached early in December when one evening at about 10 o'clock a group of fellow students assembled around the door of Karg's room, and when he opened it, he was directed to "come along." He followed and was taken to the creek which flows near the seminary and given a ducking while clad in his pajamas. Later the coat portion was removed and he was smeared with molasses and feathers, he being unobtainable at the time.

Before he reached his room he was handed a typewritten copy of "15 Points of Behavior," which he was directed to follow in the future. These referred largely to matters of personal conduct which had been objectionable.

President Riets was indignant over the affair at the time and at a session of chapel addressed the student body stating to them that all students guilty of similar conduct in the future would be promptly suspended, if compelled to suspend the whole school.

Bring Dog to Seminary.

When he returned after the holiday vacation Karg brought back with him a dog, "Zim," which was kept in his room. Whether this was done to secure protection in case of another visit of students is not known, but the dog has been a nuisance about the dormitory and an offense which Karg committed against the occupants of the dormitory as a result of the dog's presence in the building, was followed by the request for Karg's withdrawal from the school.

When the request was presented to President Riets he called a faculty meeting for a week ago last Friday, at which the faculty voted 5 to 2 to sustain the demand for withdrawal. President Riets refused to take such action and called the matter to the attention of the board of trustees, which referred it back to the faculty for recommendation.

At a meeting of the board of trustees, to which he summoned Drs. Deitz and Wolford of the theological school and Professors Traver and Dudge of the academic department, the first two having sustained President Riets on the one side and Dr. Traver having supported the position of Principal Dudge.

BATTALION CHAMPIONSHIP

Company B of Oneonta will open Company G on the primary court this evening and one of the fastest and most exciting games of the season is promised. Company B has won three straight games from Company G of Walton, two of them on the Walton court, and is coming to Oneonta tonight with the avowed purpose of winning the battalion championship. The fastest and best men in the Oneonta industrial league are on the Company E five and they will put forth their best efforts to win the game tonight.

Although Company G has lost three games to a teaming of about 30 to 40, they hold an even break with the Company E team and by winning the game tonight they will stand a good show for the championship of the second battalion. Company G is out to win tonight and a real thriller should result.

In the preliminary game, which was started promptly at 7:30, the Barons Five will meet the Cooperstown Independent Juniors. Dancing will be enjoyed following the main game with music by Lynn Smith and his orchestra.

PRIMARY CLOSING TONIGHT.

For Nomination of Candidates for Directors of Chamber of Commerce.

The primary election for directors of the Chamber of Commerce will close at 7:30 o'clock this evening, at which time the election committee will meet at the Chamber offices to canvass the ballots. About 110 votes had been cast up to last evening, and all members who have not yet sent in their ballot are urged to do so today.

Nominees will be the 12 members receiving the highest number of votes and these will stand in the final election in which six directors will be chosen. The final election ballots will be mailed to members Thursday evening.

A membership was taken last evening by Oneonta post, No. 219, American Legion, assigned to Donald H. Grant. Any desirous of changing their ballots may secure substitute ballots at the Chamber offices.

Subscription Dance.

An informal subscription dance was held in the Municipal hall last evening. The music was very snappy and is always rendered by Smith's Novelty orchestra. A novelty dance furnished much amusement to all.

The patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. Lutzer, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton, Miss Love, and Miss Posthill, the last two members of the Normal faculty. The hall was very prettily decorated.

Attention, F. & A. M. Members.

MAIN STREET BARACAS DINE

Dr. Pendleton Host At Enjoyable Banquet to Men of Congregation Monday Evening.

For the men of the Main Street Baptist church perhaps no recent social occasion has held more genuine pleasure than the banquet Monday evening in the church dining room, given by the pastor, Dr. Charles S. Pendleton, and his son, Nathan, to the men of the Baracas class, the invitation being broad enough to extend as well all men in the congregation interested in the work of the church.

About 100 men of the church and congregation partook of the banquet, the preparation of which was in the hands of Wilson Winney and accordingly to the general verdict left nothing to be desired. At its conclusion the men gathered in the church parlors and enjoyed group singing and a social hour.

Dr. Pendleton explained the banquet as an effort on his part to repay the many past favors of the men of the church to him, and judging from the sentiments expressed by some of those present the debt was completely liquidated.

Covered Dish Supper at Community House Last Evening Well Attended.

About thirty-five members of the Business Women's club gathered at the Community house last evening for an enjoyable covered dish supper and get-together, the success of the affair being largely due to the efforts of the Misses Lulu Arnold, Hazel Beach, Elsie Dolan, Susan Birdsall and Mildred Barrett, who acted as hostesses for the occasion.

The social part of the evening was pleasantly divided between Mah Jong and Five Hundred, an interesting innovation being the formation of a class in basketry, with Miss S. L. Purcell of Laurens acting as instructor.

The basketry class will meet again next Tuesday evening, February 19, at the Community house, and all club members who wish to take up this fascinating work are urged to be present at that time.

STATE EXECUTIVE MAN

Governor Smith's daily routine may not differ greatly from that of his recent predecessors, although every year brings added duties to the executive chamber. If he follows the governor from early morning until late at night he will learn that "Al" as he is known to his intimates, has little idle time.

The governor rises at 8:30 daily. A cold shower—and just as cold as possible—precedes the shaving operation, which he performs himself. Breakfast is served at 9:15. Ordinarily Mrs. Smith and Miss Emily, the eldest daughter, are the only persons at the table with the governor, except his secretary, George R. VanNamee, who frequently remains overnight at the executive mansion. "Young Al," the governor's eldest son, is on his way to lecture at the Albany Law school before this; Miss Catherine, the second daughter, is at boarding school, and Arthur and Walter, the younger boys, also are off to school.

Two cups of coffee are an unchanging feature of the governor's morning meal. While at the table, he reads the morning papers. Ten o'clock finds him on his way to the capitol, nearly half a mile distant. Sometimes the trip is made on foot; sometimes by motor.

It will come as a painful surprise to many to learn that Governor Smith does not open any mail at the executive mansion, but brings to the executive office in the morning all mail that has accumulated at the mansion.

By 10:30 he is deep in the work of the day. First, he looks over the commission to be signed; next, the newspaper releases. If there are any, that are to be issued from his office, at 11 o'clock he receives the capital reporters. The newspaper conference, as it is called, takes place in the governor's private office, where the reporters group themselves around the big mahogany desk, and then shoot their queries at the executive. Generally, the questions are answered with directness. Sometimes the executive will say: "I can't talk about that now," and often he will say: "Now, boys, this is off the record, I can't be quoted just now, but in order that you'll have the facts right for use at the proper time, I'll tell you about it." Then comes an informative talk, in consequence of which the reporters leave the room with a complete understanding of the situation and prepared to write their stories when the news is released later.

The newspaper conference lasts about fifteen minutes, and is followed by the reception of the visitors who have made previous appointments. In the meantime, the executive chamber is filling with persons who seek to meet the governor without appointment. Such are destined to wait until about 12:30, when he goes outside to see them. Very few fail to have a hearing. The usual exceptions are cases of persons seeking clemency. The governor does not meet such except by appointment, as the interviews are invariably a distressing and prolonged. When the callers have gone, it is 1:30 and time for luncheon.

Attended by his secretary, the governor goes to the executive mansion although it frequently happens that the pressure of work necessitates a luncheon served in the executive office. Occasionally a guest is taken to the mansion for luncheon, but ordinarily the governor and Secretary VanNamee are the only ones at the table.

At 2:30 the governor is back at his desk, to keep engagements with officials of the state government. Almost daily visitors are Superintendent Greene of the Department of Public Works; Royal C. Fuller, chief of the Canal bureau; Frank P. Graves, commissioner of Education; Mrs. Charles L. Smith, head of the Civil Service commission; Attorney General Carl Sherman, Chairman Gilchrist of the State Tax commission, Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, and Superintendent Harrison of the State Prison department. Superintendent of Banks George V. McLaughlin calls once a week.

The second newspaper conference of the day comes at 4 o'clock. Other appointments consume the time until 5, when the governor confers for an hour or more with Senator James J. Walker and Assemblyman Maurice Bloch. Democratic leaders in their respective branches of the legislature. Then come conferences with special committees and calls from persons who are seeking political preferment, either for themselves or for their friends.

Governor Smith tries to leave the executive office at 6:45 p. m. Dinner is served at the mansion at 7:15. The governor seldom dines for dinner unless there are guests. Four or five nights every week he works until midnight, sometimes at the capitol. It is only in the evenings that he has any time to prepare his speeches, messages to the legislature, proclamations, newspaper statements and other formal utterances, and often he is heard preparing to do this in the evening. Recently he spoke at the annual luncheon of the Albany Chamber of Commerce. The luncheon had been accepted that week by Governor Smith. WILL MOVE TO OPEN DEFAULT

Former Sheriff Williams to Ask Court to March to Release Salt of Warner and Robert Against Him.

At Herkimer on Saturday last Justice DeWitt heard arguments on a motion for an order allowing the application of Lawrence Warner and Adam J. Hubert to sue the Fidelity & Casualty company of New York, surety on the bond of Fred S. Williams, former sheriff of Otsego county, given for faithful performance of duties. James P. O'Donnell appeared for the petitioner and Charles E. Snyder represented the Fidelity & Casualty company.

The matter was adjourned over until March special term, plaintiff to have $10 costs.

Mr. O'Donnell upon the argument set forth that plaintiffs had obtained in February, 1923, a judgment against Sheriff Earl and the execution had been sent to the sheriff of Otsego county but had not been returned within 60 days. Earl had an electric plane upon which it is claimed the sheriff should have levied and had a sale, pursuant to the execution.

The sheriff was sued for his failure and not appearing in the action judgment of $125.95 was obtained and execution issued to Coroner Ward of Otsego county who returned unsatisfied and hence the asking of the order to sue the surety on the sheriff's bond.

Attorney Snyder for the Fidelity & Casualty company said that a second execution had been sent to Sheriff Williams directed to the sheriff of Herkimer county, the sale had not been made. Attorney James J. Myers, Jr., of Oneonta, representing Mr. Williams, is to make a motion to open the default in the case. Mr. Snyder said in requesting adjournment of the matter until.

Oneonta Apparently Sunk With Bankruptcy of Baptist Association

Special Committee Named to Investigate Further and Report Later at Call of President — Five Towns Present Also for Consideration — O. S. and Directors Elected.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Oneonta Baptist Home association, held yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist church in this city; and in addition to the directors there were many clergymen and laymen of this section, as well as delegations from the several towns which had the special session of sites to present. The Sunday school room of the church was well filled, and much interest was felt in the meeting, and in particular with the report of the committee on sites.

The meeting was called to order by Frank C. Huntington, president of the Home association, and Mrs. Claude L. Smith, also of this city, acted as secretary. After the roll call, the members of the site committee made their reports. Rev. G. M. Case, concerning Sidney and Canadilla, the former offering a farm house with 14 rooms and about three acres of land at price of $4,000. For the Ontario at Canadilla the price quoted was $20,000, and its case was also urged by F. M. Thynon, who stated that the price included the buildings fully furnished, including beds and bedding.

Claude L. Smith presented the case of Oneonta and suggested a property in the vicinity of the Normal school with 10-room house, at a price of $7,500. Adjoining lots can also be purchased, making the full cost under $10,000 if the extra land is desired. For West Oneonta Dr. Farley presented the merits of the West Oneonta site, formerly the First Baptist church and parsonage, which would be given free with certain conditions to perpetual use or for $5,000, with full title to the Home association.

Cooperstown offered, through Rev. C. E. Brown, the Thanksgiving hospital property, which has not been used since the patients were transferred to the new Bassett hospital, and his remarks were seconded by F. Shipman, representing the Cooperstown Chamber of Commerce, who presented the advantages of that town alike as to maintenance, cost and upkeep. The two buildings, he said, have 21 rooms. The price of the property would be $15,000. Rev. S. E. Carr also spoke briefly, suggesting a site at Walton.

Mrs. Claude L. Smith also spoke, and her brief remarks were received with attention and merited applause. She urged that it was not chiefly institutional work which was needed, but mother care and Christian love, and she hoped that all should consider that in planning for the new work, and especially and providing for a few at first and more as the needs of the church grow in Central New York.

The work of the Home was discussed by several members, among them J. J. Boshart and Chairman Huntington, the latter stating that there are but two Baptist homes in the political district, and that there are 20,000 members of the Baptist church in that part of the state which the Home would cover.

A committee was appointed for the nomination of officers, and after its return F. C. Huntington of Oneonta was recommended as president, Charles E. Brown of Albany as vice-president, C. L. Smith of Oneonta as secretary, and W. G. Wright of Milford Center as treasurer. On motion the officers named were unanimously elected.

The directors then took up once more the matter of location of the Home and it was resolved that a committee of five directors, not any of them members of churches in towns where sites had been proposed, be appointed; and with them two members of the Ladies' auxiliary. The resolution was passed and the following committee was named: Harrison Cossart of Morris, Percy Dutton of Meridith, Rev. J. D. Grider of Westville, Elmer Baker of Sidney and W. G. Wright of Milford Center. The members from the auxiliary are Mrs. Claude L. Smith of Oneonta and Mrs. A. J. Leonard of Otsego. The committee will report at an adjourned meeting, which will convene on call of the president.

While the discussion as to sites was necessarily more or less informal, it was the opinion of those in attendance that Oneonta would at least have favorable consideration. Some of the points urged in its favor were its central location, alike by rail and highway, its educational and sanitary claims, and the fact that it is a scene of denominational center, there being three Baptist churches in the city itself, all with large membership, and a goodly number of others in the immediate vicinity.

The committee on sites will report in the final choice, and it is believed that they will weigh with the special committee and with the directors at the adjourned meeting.

Choice of Directors.

The committee on selection of directors recommended the following, with terms of one, two or three years, as indicated in the attached figures: Remonderville association—2 yrs. Mr. Clapper. Oneonta—1 yr. F. S. Davy. Chemung River—1 yr. W. H. Brown. Mohawk River—1 yr. Elmer Baker. Washington United—1 yr. W. G. Wright. Roseton and Ticon—1 yr. I. E. Brownson. Madison—1 yr. Percy Dutton. Hudson River Central—2 yrs. Walter Roseberry. Saratoga—1 yr. A. J. Leonard. Worcester—1 yr. Rev. J. D. Grider. Oneonta—1 yr. F. C. Huntington. Chemung—1 yr. Addison Bradstreet. Cortland—1 yr. Rev. A. It will be noted that several of the directors are not members of the associations to which they are assigned. This is due to the fact that not the associations have met since

LEAGUE'S BAPTIST WILL OFFER

As Eastern President at the Opening of the Winter Session.

"Will many with producers withdraw from the League's League Co-operative association, Inc. during the cancellation period, February 12-23?"

G. W. Niccum, president of the association, was asked this question at the League's headquarters, 120 West 62nd street, New York city.

"Reports from all parts of League territory indicate that the percentage of withdrawals will be very small compared with previous years," Mr. Niccum replied. "New members are coming in daily. The organization, although in its infancy, is winning the admiration of business men everywhere. There is unmistakable evidence that consumers are back of our program. The association's policy is well defined. It is protecting its fluid milk markets and proposes to extend them. It is building up business machinery that will guarantee milk markets for all of our members every day in the year. There is no reason why any member should withdraw and every reason why all dairy farmers should come in. We are convinced that cooperative marketing of milk and milk products with an efficient and economical operation will return costs of production plus a reasonable profit to individual producers when all are solidly behind one organization."

Trappers Successful Season.

Malone, February 12. — The trapping season this year has been unusually successful, according to those engaged in the fur industry in the Adirondacks. More raccoons and skunk pelts have been taken in the season which for those fur bearers closed last Sunday, than for many years.

The mild weather of November, December and January, when many lakes and streams were free from ice, kept the fur bearers active and many were taken that would have gone unharned had the usual winter conditions prevailed. Among the pelts brought to the fur dealers here this season there have been many fisher, otter and martin, which have increased the trapper's receipts notably.

The Home association was organized. When they meet and elect, the men named will take the place of those temporarily designated.

While no complete financial report from the various associations was presented, owing to the fact that the organization in their communities has not been perfected, it is stated that the treasurer now has $478.25 cash on hand received from the Franklin association, in which Oneonta is located.

VETERANS OF WORLD WAR

Disabled Veterans Urged Immediately to File Certificates — Chairman Called on to Meet After March 1.

Col. Edward Olmsted, acting district manager of the United States Veterans' bureau for the second district, comprising the states of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, urged that all veterans who desire to file an application for a certificate of disability to do so immediately. March 1, 1924, is the last day to file such an application. This is in accordance with an amendment to the war risk act and all applications must be addressed to the director of the United States Veterans' bureau so that they will reach him before March 1, 1924.

An application for a certificate of disability is for the veteran who has not filed a claim for compensation during the past five years and the purpose of the certificate is to protect such veteran should he, at some future date, suffer from a disability incurred in or aggravated by his service, for which he may claim government aid. These applications, however, do not affect the ex-service man who has filed a claim for compensation or who may file one within five years from the date of his discharge.

Col. Olmsted urged that this appeal be strictly heeded and the date particularly noted, as it has been fixed by an act of congress and under the law no extension can be granted.

"The Veterans' bureau desires to give the widest publicity possible to this announcement," Col. Olmsted said. "The bureau's aim is to serve those men who have been disabled as a result of their service. Any veteran who may not as yet have filed a claim for disability but who may have even a lurking suspicion that he may now or in the future need federal aid should heed this warning."

"Any one who thinks the matter over carefully can readily see that the government cannot for an indefinite period of time accept claims for disability alleged to be due to war service. These claims must, in fairness to the taxpayers, have a just end and this is the government's warning that claims for certificates of disability cannot be made after March 1, 1924."
